Context
UN Women, grounded in the vision of equality enshrined in the Charter of the United Nations, works for the elimination of discrimination against women and girls; the empowerment of women; and the achievement of equality between women and men as partners and beneficiaries of development, human rights, humanitarian action and peace and security. Brazil is today the fifth-largest population and seventh-largest economy in the world. 51.6% of its population are women, 53.6% recognize themselves as afro descendent and 0.47% (close to 897,000) as indigenous. Brazil ratified key human rights treaties such as the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW), the Belem do Para Convention, and the Convention on the Elimination of Racial Discrimination (CERD). Brazil is also signatory of key normative human rights and development instruments such as the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action, the Durban Declaration and Programme of Action and the Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples. In September 2015, Brazil joined the international community in the adoption of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, committing with the implementation of the 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), including SDG 5 “Achieve gender equality and empower all women and girls”. The National Development Plan (Plano Pluri-Anual – PPA) 2016-2019 is aligned with SDGs and places the "Promotion of gender and ethnic-racial equality and overcoming racism, respecting the diversity of human relationships" as one of its main guidance, and “Policies for Women: Promotion of Equality and Combat to Violence” as one of its emblematic programs. Brazil has developed an innovative partnership model with private sector companies through the promotion of the Women's Empowerment Principles (WEPs). Main challenge now is to strength support and guidance for its implementation and reporting.
